Dear Shareholder,

We are pleased to present you the following semi-annual report for the ESPA BOND EMERGING-MARKETS mutual fund pursuant to the InvFG for the period from 16 March 2012 to 15 September 2012.

Development of the Fund

Market environment

During the reporting period, the spread of the EMBI Global Diversified Index, which is relevant for assessing the credit risk of the fund's investment universe, narrowed from 312 basis points to 273 basis points. This brought it close to the low of 270 basis points (14 September 2012), after a high of 426 basis points (1 June 2012). The majority of the spread narrowing (which indicates improved risk sentiment) took place in the last eight weeks.

ESPA BOND EMERGING-MARKETS achieved a respectable performance of 7.97% in the six months of the reporting period.

The past half year was characterised by the rescue of the euro, the slowdown of economic growth in the emerging markets and the fear of a significant downturn in China and possible spill-over effects on the global economy. This caused extreme volatility on the credit markets. Alongside the crises in the EU countries, a loss of confidence and poor political leadership triggered recessive trends around the world. In recent weeks, EU politicians agreed on first tentative steps towards an economic union, with a concrete system of rules for the budgets of the individual countries, supranational banking supervision and the relinquishing of certain seniority rights (recapitalisation package for Spanish banks). The governments in Italy, Greece and Spain became more technocratic, which will help secure refinancing for these countries in 2012. Many EU members were also downgraded by the rating agencies, and this clearly took its toll on yields on bonds from these countries. The ECB remained neutral at first, but then provided massive liquidity via two "bazooka" LTROs (roughly EUR 820 billion alone for the PIIGS) while continuing to refuse to buy up large volumes of government bonds but maintaining its EUR 5–6 billion in purchases per week. This was not enough for investors, and the markets remained under pressure. In August, ECB president Draghi promised that it would do everything in its power to stabilise the situation in the Eurozone. He said that the euro is irreversible, and that government debt would be bought in unlimited amounts if necessary. This primarily in the form of short maturities. This unequivocal statement led to a massive reduction in risk aversion, including in the emerging markets, in recent weeks.

The great uncertainty surrounding the euro also had an impact on the real economy. Consumer sentiment has deteriorated around the world, and demand in many EM countries (especially China) has suffered a decline. In addition, there was a substantial correction in real estate prices in China, where the real estate sector was one of the main drivers of economic growth. The Chinese central bank lowered the minimum reserve requirements for banks in order to support the economy with more credit and to prevent economic growth from falling below 7–8%. The macroeconomic data from the EM countries are reflecting the slowing global economy. Even if the emerging markets are not immune to an environment of considerable risk aversion, they have profited to a certain extent from a "flight to quality" (objectively speaking, less macro risks than the developed markets, especially in terms of indebtedness, fiscal situation and growth) as a relatively "defensive" investment instrument. The average EM economic growth of 4.5% (after 5.7% in 2011) is likely to again outstrip the growth of GDP in the developed markets. Another relative advantage is that the emerging markets have substantially more monetary and fiscal policy leeway than the developed markets.

Investment policy

The fund invests in USD- and EUR-denominated bonds, primarily from government issuers. As of 17 September 2012, roughly 38.9% of the credit risk was held in Latin America, 31.8% in Eastern Europe, 20% in Asia and roughly 5.80% in MENA. The six largest debtors in the fund are Brazil, the Philippines, Mexico, Turkey, Russia and Indonesia (in that order). The USD FX risk is permanently hedged, which means that the fund is not exposed to currency risk. The focus is on the management of credit risk, which is distributed among over 30 sovereigns.
